

KNABE PIANOS

Are Supreme.

It is quite impossible to conceive of anything better in the way of Pianos than the peerless KNABE instruments. They stand for perfection in piano construction—being the culmination of years of the most exhaustive application to the art. The superb musical qualities of KNABE Pianos appeal gratefully to masters and amateurs and make KNABES the supreme exponents of perfect melody.

The advent of the KNABE ANGELUS—a self-playing Knabe—makes good music always possible, regardless of the skill or talent of the performer. The self-playing attachment built in the piano neither changes the appearance of the instrument nor does it interfere when the piano is to be played by hand.

The Emerson Angelus is another self-playing Piano worthy of attention.

GREENE-GAYNOR CASE

Letters to and From Capt. Carter Read.

CLEVER SCHEMES SHOWN
How the Defendants Conspired to Divvy in Mattress Deal.

CONTRACT CHANGED DEMANDS
Relevancy of Evidence Questioned by Defense—Judge Adjourned Court for Prosecutor's Benefit.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 27.—The letters to and from Capt. Carter, written in 1891, and relating to Jersey Central works and the building of sewers in Orange and New York, were read upon the resumption of the Greene-Gaynor case today, the juror who was ill having recovered sufficiently to continue. At about the time the letters were written Carter, it is alleged, was desirous of embarking in a cash register enterprise.

Henry A. Curtis, a clerk in the office of the War Department auditor, testified as to the contracts between the government and Greene and Gaynor. Mr. Curtis tendered a letter, bearing the signature of John P. Gaynor. This was not identified by the witness. He said he did not think the letter or the signature the handwriting of John P. Gaynor, but that the body of the letter and the signature were in the handwriting of Benjamin D. Greene.

Mattresses by the Square Yard.
The objection was made by the defense to this evidence and then Attorney Erwin explained that he desired it to prove that Carter in 1891 began to require that the contractors, Greene and Gaynor, pay for the mattresses by the square yard instead of by the cubic yard, as they had been doing. This course enabled the contractors to make the mattresses only a few inches in thickness, thus effecting a great saving in expense. This raising of the cost of the work to the government, said Mr. Erwin, worth 300 or 400 per cent and the alleged conspiracy were dividing the money among themselves.

Carter at that time purposely, he said, and with intent to defraud in connection with the defense changed the contract requirements in the contracts as to which style of work should be required, rather than permit bidders to base their proposal on the cheapest style.

All these considerations, he asserted, pecked the relevancy of the evidence he desired to introduce as to the defense's contention that the contracts were inadmissible because not properly proven, he said they were the department records.

Objection by Defense.
One of the contracts submitted was between the government and W. T. Gaynor, a brother of John P. Gaynor, and was objected to by the defense on the ground of irrelevancy, to which Mr. Erwin answered that W. T. Gaynor was also under indictment with Greene and John P. Gaynor, and that W. T. Gaynor shared in the alleged division of spoils. The defense claimed that W. T. Gaynor was not connected with the case and that the evidence introduced only in order to get in certain evidence and not to be brought to trial.

To this the court responded that the government had by its evidence abandoned the case against W. T. Gaynor, Edward F. Gaynor and the other defendants, who are Oberlin M. Carter, A. C. Connelly, but that there were certain points in the case against Benjamin Greene and W. T. Gaynor that were not the subject of the other defendants from trial at the present time.

Judge Spear referred to the fact that the district attorney shared in the case with authority upon which to base his argument for the admissibility of the evidence.

"In this case," said the court, "you have seemed to assume that authorities are not necessary and have accepted it as settled that the court will sustain you when objections to your evidence are submitted by the defense. I think you are wrong, Mr. Erwin. As you do not seem to have any in readiness the court will adjourn until Monday morning in order to give you an opportunity to fix it."

MAY RESULT FATALLY
SHOOTING AFFRAY AT COLLEGE PARK, MD.

Special Dispatch to The Star.
COLLEGE PARK, Md., January 27.—A shooting affray that will probably result fatally occurred in the quarters occupied by the colored waiters of the Maryland Agricultural College about 10 o'clock tonight.

Henry Hawkins, colored, was the victim of the shooting, and a companion named Briscoe, also colored, is accused of having fired the shot. Hawkins claims that the affray was the result of the taunting of Briscoe by him and that he was provoked to the stomach and caused considerable bleeding, has not been located. Hawkins was taken to the Emergency Hospital in Washington. Briscoe had not been arrested at a late hour.

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS.
Steps to Force Restitution to Be Taken by Tennessee.

NEW YORK, January 27.—Insurance Commissioner R. E. Folk of Tennessee, who has been in New York for the past week conferring with the New York legislative insurance investigating committee, issued a statement tonight relative to a news dispatch from Nashville, Tenn., in which a number of insurance companies were erroneously mentioned in connection with the influencing of legislation. The companies named in error, said Mr. Folk, were the Commercial Life, the New York Life Insurance Society and the New York Life Insurance Life, the Mutual Benefit of Newark, N. J., the Northwestern Mutual Life of Milwaukee, the United States Life and the Union Central Life.

Commissioner Folk said: "The companies which had admitted contributing to campaign funds were as follows: The Mutual Life of New York, an aggregate of $90,000 to the republican campaign of 1890, 1892, and 1894, and $2,500 in 1904 to the republican congressional committee; the Prudential, $25,000 to the republican committee for the last three national campaigns; the Penn Mutual, $10,000 in 1890; the Metropolitan, $7,500; the Aetna, $1,500 in the three campaigns, and the Provident Savings $500 in 1890, all to the republican national campaign committee. The Home Life admitted a contribution of $1,000 in 1890 for the distribution of literature in defense of the gold standard. At least two other companies have contributed to campaign funds—the Equitable Life Assurance Society and the New York Life Insurance Company. Tennessee is making an investigation into the affairs of the New York Life Insurance Company in conjunction with the states of Wisconsin, Kentucky, Minnesota and Nebraska.

"With reference to political contributions it is the ruling of the Tennessee committee of the state of Tennessee that prompt and effective steps be taken to secure the restitution of the funds thus illegally diverted from the treasury of the companies by the officers responsible for this diversion of funds. To this effect I wrote on January 17 to the several companies when they notified them that it is essential for them that they comply with this ruling and put themselves within the law."

MR. ROOT'S LUNCHEON

BUT TWO TOASTS DRANK AND NO SPEECHES.

Guests of the Secretary of State at an elaborate luncheon, where they met most of the eminent people connected with the federal government, was the only number of the program of the Secretary of State's luncheon yesterday. They had the luncheon and met all of the noted guests who had answered the Secretary's invitation, but they managed to put in a few hours of work notwithstanding. The commission divided into subcommittees in the early morning and took another turn at the Treasury, and especially at the bureau of engraving and printing. Another party called at the District building and went over a good many features of the municipal administration with the District Commissioners beside investigating the police department and the national system of criminal identification. Then they appeared in force, the commissioners and their guests, at the luncheon where they were the guests of the Secretary of State at luncheon, and finally they had a further session with Commissioner Macfarland and his staff, going over the details of city administration.

The luncheon was, of course, the event of the day. All the members of the cabinet were present, and the Secretary of State, a number of distinguished officers, and a number of other guests, mostly orientalists or in some way interested in the far east.

The table was laid in the red room of the hotel. It was in the form of a great oval, the central wall filled with flowering plants, while the decorations of the table itself were a confusion of great bunches of flowers at each end, and a lacework of the same flowers down the length of the table.

After luncheon the Secretary of State arose and said that there were to be no speeches and but two toasts without reserve. One toast was for the President of the United States and the other to the Emperor of China. Both were drunk standing.

Those Present.
Those present at the luncheon were Secretary Root, Mr. McPherson, Mr. Taft, Mr. Clegg, Mr. Egan, Mr. Gurnea, Mr. Harbo, Mr. Lusk, Mr. Quinn, Mr. Sherrin, Mr. Tamm, Mr. Tracy, Mr. Wadsworth, Mr. Wood,
